I'm sorry for your loss. I just heard the news today. I met Chris at the trap range when I showed up a few minutes before closing one day and he took the time to show me how to assemble my new shotgun and let me try it a few times. I believe if he had not been so nice and patient, I would not be into the sport that I love. I learned a lot from Chris. I hope his wife and son can be comforted by many happy memories in the days ahead.
