My dear SweetSam, I can still hear that infectious laugh of yours. I can still see that big pearly white smile. I am still in shock that you are no longer here. I'm not exactly sure how to put it into words. You were one of the very few people I could completely confide in and know that I was in a no judgement zone. You always helped every one that you could. You had such a caring and genuine heart. There isn't a doubt in my mind that you are in heaven with your precious daddy right now, but that doesn't make it any easier to say goodbye to someone we weren't ready to let go of. You truly will be missed. Thank you for always being someone that loved me for me and always having a listening ear. I love you Sam! Until I see you again, keep an eye on us down here.

Samantha had such a great spirit and was just as sassy. Knowing she is completely healed and walking with her loved ones who are with the Lord gives all comfort; our hearts are heavy with grief, but we know she will be waiting to see her family and friends.

I'm still shocked and saddened to hear about the passing of Sam. She was always cheerful, bubbly, kind, and a very loving and compassionate person. She loved Gracie unconditionally and I remember when she brought her to daycare and picked her up she always told her she loved her and had a big hug for her. She adored her little sister Chelsea as well. They were always so close and I know there's a big gap left in Chelsea's life now. I will continue to pray for her family and friends not only today but in the days ahead. We love you and miss you Sam.
