Sharon, oh the funny times we laughed in the ER way back when times seemed so much different. Your laugh was contagious. Sometimes we just had to say "I don't give a flip". No matter how bad you had it or what seemed to be your stressor. You always had a way to cut up and laugh and shine on. You will not be forgotten. The pain in your suffering and the strength it took for you to fight all of your battles showed how strong you were. Now you have ran your race, your battle is won. Have peace and find rest in the arms of our savior. We will see you again. To the Family. Sharon left an impression on many hearts. She was loved and will not be forgotten. I pray you find courage and peace and will not be forgotten. I pray you find courage and peace in these days of grief. May God give you comfort in knowing she rest with him. I pray you find comfort that you will see her again and soon. I pray that God wraps his hands around your broken hearts and his arms of love to reassure you that she is now okay. Sharon was a good gal and one of a kind. Rest sweet friend
